KAISER MAKING LAST EFFORT, NEWSPAPERS OF PARIS BELIEVE

Agree That Fighting Between Nieuport and La Bossee Is Most Furious in World's History.

PARIS, October 24.—The Paris newspapers agree in the opinion that the fighting between Nieuport and Labers and several the world's history. They assert that Germany is making a last effort, and hold that if the allies prevall the victory is likely to be decisive, because, in their view, the German semi-raw troops cannot stand the strain of a retreat like von Kluck's from Marne. The Temps quotes the German press to demonstrate their lack of confidence. Thus it contrasts with the Intraspeants statement:

"We await confidently the result of this latest test, which is certainly not the severest we have undergone."

The Temps mentions some new German plans, which its correspondent received from an eminent military personal control of the supposed nationality, of the supposed nationality, of the interlocutor."

According to this man, they intend to take Belfort and occupy Calais, the former in order to invade France from a new point or to compel the French. "by the effect of this capture on public opinion," to make a separate peace. The latter would then be useful as a point d'appui against England, whom Germany regards as her most dangerous enemy, despising Russia. For England terrible surprises are in store. "Perhaps surprises are due for the Germans also, even should they take Calais or Belfort. "Certainly France will never desert her ally, whom the Germans attempted at the outset of the war to cajole with equally transparent absurdities. "As for Russia, we expect the German will soon begin to find her somewhat less despisable. Perhaps our correspondent's informant might ask von Hindenberg's opinion."

ILONDON, October 25, 12:40 a.m.—A message-sent from Paris by the correspondent of the Reuter Telegraph throws an interesting light upon the character of the reinforcements recently sent to the front by the Germans, as indicated by the arrival of a convoy of prisoners in Paris today. All the captives were men of eighteen or forty years of age. They showed no signs of fatigue, which was due to the fact that they had had no time for fighting before being captured.

One of the prisoners, who was formerly a resident of Paris, said they left Berlin October 12 and arrived at Dixmude on the 19th. They were captured.

The Germans say they suffered greatly while in the trenches at Dixmude, as the water in the pits reached to their thips. They were captured when caught the twent two fires.
